Not Even In Dreams

Sitting in a dark room and trying to figuring out what could be the reason why his heart was hurting like that, Kibum didn't dare to take a look in the window glass where his own reflection would show him a hurt face .

He tried to make everything be fine. He tired to save the younger one.

But nothing. Really nothing did help and so Kibum thought is time to end it.

Later he return to the dorm seeing the younger one sleeping. Not even know what his dream may be, he let himself fall next to the one. Stroking his hair. The picture in front of him stole his last breath. Kevin was truly a beautiful.

Now again. He was sitting in the dark room. Alone. Of course. Hyung. A clam voice reach his ears. He turn around and saw the beautiful sleeping standing in the door frame. Hyung. Again. But he turn away. Not daring looking at the one he had hurt. In so many ways in so many times. He couldn't hurt Kevin once more.

It was already unforgiveable what he did.

Letting out a sigh he opened his eyes lazy. The sun was shinning too bright in his eyes . But something else was even much more bright. Kevin was staring down at him. Whit a huge smile.

Hyung, you've got tears in your eyes. I think you had a bad dream.

But is over. Now I am here for you.
