

Not as planned 1.5 - Katsuki and Eijiro

A/B/O Verse

Von Puraido

Kapitel 25: Katsuki Bakugo + Eijiro Kirishima: +8 Years (+Izuku)

Katsuki and Hiroto were in their nest, Kira was on top of Katsuki's chest. "I've never seen Deku like this before, the sheer panic in his eyes ..." he murmured.

"I mean, this must have been a really horrible experience, I hope my brother can find a way, to remove Carter from there ..."

"I hope so too ..."

Isao got the statements of Izuku and Lucia in form of videotapes. He learned in even more detail about the atrocities this man had done to them, he was shocked to hear that Izuku had been tortured too. The prime begged him not to tell Katsuki or any of the others, he didn't want them to know. Isao promised it.

But it was still a hard case and the court refused to investigate against Carter, so the months passed.

Even though Katsuki was still a bit concerned about the whole situation, he allowed himself in April to turn it down, there was nothing he personally could do, so he tried to focus on his honeymoon. They would fly to Nabu Island for it. It was still close enough that they could come back rather quickly if something was happening with Kira. Katsuki was really nervous to leave his daughter behind, but Mitsuki assured him, that she would be fine.

Their time on Nabu Island was very relaxing, many people remembered Katsuki from so long ago, it was nice to see some of them again. Katsuma and Mahoro were especially happy to see him again.

The couple enjoyed long stays on the beach, the water was a bit too cold for their comfort, but Katsuki didn't mind too much, he didn't want to swim anyway. They spent their nights together, they had planned the trip for two weeks, one of which fell into Katsuki's heat. He was on birth control however he didn't want to get pregnant at the moment, he didn't want to miss out on his job again.

He had heard from Eijiro, that Mae was finally pregnant again, this had almost triggered his own baby fever, but he had himself under control.

One early noon, he woke up, he felt around but Hiroto was not next to him. His heat-ridden brain went immediately into a panic and he let out a loud keening sound, where was his mate?

"I'm in the kitchen!" Hiroto called over, this calmed Katsuki down, he couldn't really get out of bed right now, since he was so bloated and his legs were extremely wobbly from the nightly action before.

A few minutes later the alpha came back he had made them something to eat. Katsuki trilled when he saw the food, he reached out to take the bowl from his husband. He chirped, even more, when he tasted the food, it was delicious.

Katsuki sat back, leaning against the head of the bed, he had the bowl in hand, eating the soba noodles, Hiroto was sitting more in the middle, criss-cross applesauce, he let his hand wander over Katsuki's bloated belly.

The blonde alpha purred. "I think in one or two years from now I want another pup" he murmured.

"Sounds good to me" Hiroto smiled at him, when he was done with his lunch he placed the bowl on the bedside table and he leaned over to kiss Katsuki's belly. "Then Kira will have a little sibling."

"How many pups do you want?" Katsuki asked.

Hiroto shrugged. "As many as you are willing to give me if you want more than two pups, that is fine by me." He moved up now to kiss Katsuki on the mouth.

"We'll see," the blonde chuckled, "but not twenty children."

"Oh god, please no. I wouldn't want to put you through something like that."

"Maybe like ... six or seven" Katsuki purred more by the thought of it. Funny how he had once thought, that he could never imagine himself being pregnant, and here he was talking about having more pups.

He blushed when he felt more heat rising up, the thought of having pups made him horny again, his body clearly knew what he wanted. More slick was flowing out of him.

"It seems that you need someone who takes care of you" Hiroto chuckled.

He pulled Katsuki a little bit down, the blonde alpha grabbed the head frame of the bed with his hands, he gasped, when he could feel Hiroto's mouth.

The honeymoon went by way too fast and soon after they were back in the real world. However, Katsuki was very happy to see Kira again, the pup squealed in joy when her parents returned.

Eijiro and Mae had been house shopping for some time now. While they had told the others, that Mae was expecting, they hadn't clarified that they were triplets.

When he saw the prices for the houses that were big enough for the six of them, he had to gulp heavily. Mae also needed a house where her dogs had plenty of room and a garden too. She wanted that every pup had their own bedroom in the future. They also needed space for their cars.

She eventually picked one out that met all her criteria's and Eijiro needed to take a few deep breaths when he saw the price of this thing. How the hell should he afford that? He was by no means poor but this thing would be a hard bite to chew. The price was roughly around 500,000,000 Yen. Mae saw his hesitation but she assured him, that he didn't have to buy it all alone, she would of course contribute to it. Her parents would gladly give them some money too.

Even though his stomach still turned a little bit by the thought of buying this house, he signed the contract. Mae was super happy about that and she hugged Eijiro.

In April they moved into the new house, it was really spacious, it was completely renovated, thank god, but they still had to tweak a few things, of course. Mae inspected the master bedroom, she definitely would need to change a few things, first of all, she needed to craft the perfect nest.

Over time they would renovate the pups' bedrooms, they started with Ryuu's of course. The boy was excited to finally sleep in his new bedroom. He was also more and more excited for his siblings.

In May they planned to reveal the triplet news to the others. They also planned a housewarming party. Some of the others had helped them to move and they wanted to say thank you.

Eijiro, who had started to work more again, to be able to afford all of their expenses, couldn't manage to get off of work to shop for some stuff for the barbeque. That's why he asked Katsuki if he could help him out if he gave him money. He would have asked Mina or Tetsutetsu, but they were on Mina's heat leave, and they wouldn't come out before the party. Mina also tried to have a pup now, so he definitely didn't want to interrupt that.

Katsuki agreed to shop for Eijiro, he asked Toya if he wanted to come along since the omega had muttered something in the likes of that he had to buy a few things for Hotaru's school work. She had told him last minute that she needed super glue and glitter for a project.

Now Katsuki and Toya were done in the shopping mall after they had gathered everything for Hotaru, as well as the most stuff for Eijiro. All that was left was the meat. They didn't want to buy the pre-packed meat they had seen in the store, instead, they went to the butcher shop a little outside.

They entered it, luckily not many people were here at the moment. The owner of the little store was in today, she was serving the one customer before them. The woman was a pig-headed omega, she was friendly towards the customers, even though she sometimes looked like she was constantly frowning, then again, Katsuki couldn't tell if that wasn't caused by the pig head.

The woman in front of them was done now, and the butcher let out a little, very adorable 'oink', when she left, and she greeted Katsuki and Toya. "How can I help you?" she asked.

"Oh, we need some meat for a barbeque" Katsuki started, he looked at the meat in front of them.

Suddenly, the door that separated the sales room from the preparation room was opened, and another worker entered. "Ino, I'm going to my break now," the blonde woman told the butcher. Toya lost his shit when he recognized the female.

"Toga?!" he exclaimed.

More than a little surprised, the woman turned around, and sure enough, it was one Himiko Toga that was in front of them.

Her eyes got large and she opened her mouth. "Oh my god! Dabi?!" She let out. "It's been ages!" she squealed.

"The hell are you doing here?" Toya asked her.

"I work here! Oh my god! I am so happy to see you again!" she blushed. "Do you want to talk? I'm on my break now, we can catch up!" she let out some happy chirping sounds.

"Uhh, s-sure ..." Toya was so overwhelmed. First, he saw Shigaraki again, and now Toga? Even more, Toga worked a normal job? He couldn't really believe it.

They finished their shopping first, before they went outside with Himiko, they were on the back of the store in the parking lot for employees. "How are you doing, Dabi?" Himiko asked.

"Toya ..." he corrected her. "I'm doing pretty fine. Life's going good for once" he murmured. "What about you?"

Katsuki was watching the two with mixed feelings.

"Oh, you have no idea! It's been an up and down since the League was eliminated. I was in many bad places for many years," Himiko sighed, "but I finally managed to get a somewhat stable life now!" She grinned widely.

"Really? How come? What about your blood addiction?" Toya raised his eyebrows.

"Oh, I got it under control. I haven't killed someone in ages" she sounded proud. "It started to go better for me when I was picked up by a couple. They are really lovely people, they rescued me from the bad place I was in." She got a bit calmer.

"They have both blood-related quirks and Chiaki managed to help me out with my addiction, I can drink her blood whenever I feel the need to suck blood. She can regenerate her blood pretty quickly. And her husband Ye-Jun helps me some times, too." She was blushed when she talked about them.

"Huh, okay, that is great to hear, Himiko" Toya mentioned. "I'm glad that you could turn your life around."

"Yeah, sounds good" Katsuki mumbled.

"I am happy too. It took me a long while to get to a normal mental headspace, as for my violent tendencies, they got also better after starting a job that I really enjoy, slicing animals is as good as slicing people" she shrugged. "Also, Adam, Noa, and Ino, the owners of the shop, are totally cool, too. They keep me in check too!"

"I mean, I am glad that you turned to animals, otherwise I would have to turn you in ..." Katsuki mentioned.

"Oh, right, Bakugo, you are a hero. But I promise I don't do anything!" She smiled at him, it still sent shivers down his spine. "By the way, I totally love your alpha self, it's really hot!"

"Uh, thanks" the blonde answered confused.

"Toya, I saw that you are mated?" Himiko turned back to Toya.

"Yeah, I am. To another hero," he said.

"That's so cool, I am happy for you. What's with Tomura though?" She tilted her head.

Toya and Katsuki looked at each other. "He's doing not fine, something terrible is happening to him in prison, and we try to get a case on the doctor," Toya explained.

"Yikes, that doesn't sound good" Himiko scrunched her nose.

"No, he was completely through, the last time I saw him." Toya sighed.

"Damn ... that sounds bad. But I am surprised that you care at all, after all, he put you through."

"I don't hate him this much, that I wish for him to be experimented on. I am not that heartless monster anymore" Toya cleared his throat.

"I get you ..." Himiko looked to the ground. "Well, we really need to catch up at one point, I really want to meet your daughter, and maybe she and mine can be friends" She smiled brightly.

"You have a daughter?" Toya raised his eyebrows.

"Yeah, I have. She is Ye-Jun's pup. Chiaki had trouble conceiving because of her quirk, so I offered to help them out since they helped me so much. Chiaki and I co-parent little Saori." She explained.

"That's nice of you" Katsuki murmured.

"Well, they did a lot for me, too, so yeah" She shrugged and smiled.

"True ... Anyway, Himiko, it was nice seeing you, we can surely meet up some other time, but Katsuki and I have to go, we need to shop for some things," Toya said.

"Oh, yeah, right, right, don't wanna stop you for too long. See you!" She smiled at them and gave them a peace sign before she headed back in.

Toya and Katsuki looked at each other before they went back to the car. Inside of it, they both sighed. "That was surprising." They both exclaimed.

"Do you believe her?" Katsuki asked.

"I am not sure ... I wouldn't bet my money on it. But hey, on the other hand, if I managed to get my life back together, why shouldn't she?" He shrugged.

"We should keep an eye out, however ..."

"Agreed."

Eijiro thanked them for shopping for him, he was still at work and was rather curt. He was on duty for the last twelve hours and since he was all alone he would have to cover another shift. But he needed the money anyway, so he didn't complain. But he was also way too exhausted already.

He got home very early in the morning, he showered quickly and then he crashed onto the bed of the guest room, he didn't want to wake Mae up, because he had to go back to work in about five hours again, this was way before Mae had to get up.

The alpha was so done when his alarm went off, he grunted and fell almost out of bed, he changed directly into his hero gear, made himself a sandwich, and off he went, it was about six in the morning and he would get home at around eleven pm. He sighed when he thought about this long shift ...

It was another exhausting day, one villain after another, back to back and he couldn't catch a break, it was hexed like the villains knew that he was alone and exhausted. But it couldn't be helped, the more villains he caught, the more money he would make.

When his shift was over at almost midnight – of course, there had to be an attack five minutes before he was done – he wanted to cry out loud, he walked home, completely numb and drained and he crashed onto the couch, he didn't even make it to one of the bedrooms.

It was the day of the housewarming party, so he had some time longer to sleep. He got woken up by Mae at around eight am, however. "Eijiro!" she mewled.

Completely exhausted and sleep-deprived, Eijiro looked up to her. "W-what?" he murmured.

"Could you go to the grocery store? I want some pickles!" she asked.

The redhead groaned and let his head flop back onto the pillow. "Sure" he grunted.

Sighing he got up, he didn't care that he was still in his hero costume, or that he reeked of sweat since he hadn't even showered.

Dark circles were under his eyes when he arrived at the grocery store. He grabbed the pickles and the other stuff that was on the list that Mae had given him. The people looked at him a little bit weirdly. He couldn't blame them, he looked like a zombie.

He came home about thirty minutes later. Mae was in the garden, with the dogs, and decorated some things. She looked around when Eijiro arrived, she could smell him five miles against the wind.

"Oh, thank you, hun!" she squealed when he gave her the pickles. A purr could be heard from her when she placed the unopened pickle jar on one of the tables. She got closer to him and pulled him into a hug. "You know baby, I am so horny half of the time, but you are away so much" she mewled again.

The thought of having sex right now was too much for Eijiro's tired brain. He didn't even know if he would get an erection like that. "Uh ... Mae, I ... I really want to sleep, I had to work almost triple shifts these past days, and I don't want to be a brain-dead zombie at the party," he told her.

Her ears lay flat against her head, her lip started to quiver. "But Eijiro! I really want to fuck, Ryuu is still with my parents so now's the time! The party starts at two so there's plenty of time for you to sleep!" She begged.

If Eijiro wouldn't have been so tired, he may have argued with her, but now he just wanted to get it over. "Okay, fine, but quick, I am really tired."

"Okay! I make sure to be quick" She purred and pulled him into the bedroom.

Eijiro was really glad that she kept her word, he really didn't have the strength for hours of sex, he really had to focus to stay hard – and maybe use his quirk a little bit.

After that, he could finally catch some more hours of sleep. He was really out for it. An hour before the party was on, he woke up and dragged himself into the shower, he really was exhausted.

The party went on for some time now, the guests had little presents for Mae, mostly more baby stuff. She was back in her element again, while Eijiro just sat there, most of the time, and tried to stay awake.

Mina was so excited and she was, most of the time, close to Mae, she really was in baby-fever.

Ochako had, much to Eijiro's surprise a baby bump too, he hadn't even realized that she was also pregnant.

"Thank you all for coming" Mae stood in front of the table, they all were all listening to her. "We are so grateful for everyone who helped us this last month with moving our stuff into the new house. You have no idea how much this means to me" she smiled brightly. "And a thank you to everyone for the baby clothing, my little angels will definitely need it!" She smiled.

Mina gasped. "Angels? Do you have twins?" she exclaimed excitedly. "And they are girls?"

Mae grinned from ear to ear. "Girls yes, twins, no," she said.

"Don't tell me ..." Denki started, "are you having triplets?"

"Yes! Three little baby girls!" She jumped a little up and down in excitement.

They all were pretty surprised. "Oh my god, I can't believe that!" Mary, Mae's best friend, exclaimed, she was one of the friends that were also pregnant.

"Damn, triplets, huh?" Katsuki sat next to Eijiro, the redhead looked over to his friend.

"Jep ... I was shocked when she told me," Eijiro mumbled.

"That's why the house has to be so big, huh?" Shoto questioned.

"Jep ..." Eijiro repeated.

"Damn, bro, never expected triplets, any plan how to manage them?" Tetsutetsu asked.

"Nope ..." Eijiro sighed. "That's what I'm a little bit afraid of. Not being able to handle the three pups ..."

"Hey, you can always ask for help!" Katsuki offered. He rumbled to soothe Eijiro.

"Thanks ... I appreciate it." He smiled.

Time continued to be stressful. He didn't have to work eighteen-hour shifts anymore, but it was still more than before, and the bills piled up, something was always broken, one month his car broke down, another month, Mae's dog had to visit the vet. Then Mae needed more nesting supplies for the baby cribs. And on and on, at the end of every day, Eijiro just felt like crying. And this house ... this fucking expensive house ...

Toya and Sougo were with Hotaru on the playground, when Himiko came over with her daughter, Saori, she was about five years old. "Hey, Toya!" She called out.

"Oh, hey," Toya said. Sougo raised his eyebrows, he, of course, knew who Himiko Toga was.

"Ohh, that's your daughter?! She's so big already!" Himiko squealed. "Hey, sweetie, I'm aunt Himiko!" She introduced himself. "Your mom and I were good friends a couple of years ago!"

"Good friends?" Toya murmured quietly.

"Oh, hello", the eight-year-old mumbled shyly. She looked over to her dad.

"It's okay, Hotaru, she's a friend of mine" Toya nodded. This was enough for Hotaru to approach Himiko more openly.

"I'm Hotaru" she introduced herself.

"It's so nice to meet you, this is my daughter Saori," Himiko looked down to the little blonde pup, "say hello."

"Hewwo," the girl said, she hid behind her mother and she seemed too scared to say more.

"Do you want to play?" Hotaru asked.

The five-year-old had one finger in her mouth, she looked up to Himiko, she animated her daughter to say yes. Eventually, the girl nodded, and off they went.

"It's so great to finally meet the little one again," Himiko grinned, "the last time I saw her, she was a baby after all."

"Yeah ... that's true ..." Toya murmured, the parents sat down on one of the benches.

"So, tell, do you plan on having another pup with your new, very charming mate, too?" She leaned over to eye Sougo, who smiled awkwardly.

"Uh, I don't know yet ..." Toya mumbled, "I'm still a little put off by another pregnancy, after the last one ..."

"Really, after all those years?" Himiko blinked.

"Yeah, that shit is stuck in my head, I went through years of therapy but still, I have nightmares of being cut open by this guy," he sighed.

"Damn, that sucks. I'm sure Hotaru would be happy if she had siblings."

"Oh, she's not lonely, my brother has pups, and slowly but surely, Keigo's pups visit us from time to time ... so she has plenty of company."

"Haha, I'm sure about that." Toga smiled.

Toya looked over to Sougo, who was watching the kids, he wondered if he could do it ... He really wanted to have a pup with him, but he was still scared.

Izuku and Lucia had slowly but surely recovered from their traumatic experience, it had been a few months by now, that they had made their statements.

Like before, nightmares plagued Izuku's nights and he woke up, drenched in sweat more than once. Lucia struggled too, she had more memories from the stuff than Izuku, even before they fully came back, but this ... this was extremely brutal for her.

But they couldn't just go back to Thailand and wipe their memories again, Izuku wasn't sure if Ian would allow that. They had talked with Kairi and Ian after they had made their statements, and Izuku had asked them if they could testify too, both of them weren't sure if they really wanted to do that.

Kairi mumbled some suspicious stuff about wanting to take care of the Doctor herself. Izuku could only guess what she meant by that.

He hoped she wouldn't do stupid stuff like trying to break into Tartarus and kidnap the Doctor. He was sure that she was stupid enough to do such a thing. It wouldn't be the first time she broke into a prison just to kill someone.

His colleagues noticed too, that Izuku was jumpier than usual, but even after asking, he didn't give them answers.

But he talked with Inko about it, she still didn't even know the full extent of the things that the Doctor had done to him. Back then, she only learned that they had been tortured. None of the three was willing to talk about it in greater detail.

He still remembered the fight that Inko had with Kairi, he had never seen his mother this angry, he had never thought, that his omegan mother would dare to attack a mercenary prime alpha. Especially after he had seen her in this feral state. The thought of Kairi, ripping Inko's head off made his skin crawl. Of course, he knew that she would never do that.

Inko and Kairi got along, for the most part, if it weren't for the female prime alpha, Izuku would have never had the courage to talk to his mother, after he first left. But Kairi had insisted that he called his mother. They had literally fought against each other, and only after he lost repeatedly to her, he had stopped struggling and finally called his mother.

For that Inko was thankful, and for the opportunity to live with him again. But she absolutely hated Kairi's darker side. She always tried her best to stop Kairi from doing what she was doing.

So when she had learned about Izuku being tortured, she had literally pounced Kairi to the ground, her eyes were glowing green and her teeth were sharp. She had gripped Kairi's jacket collar and with tears in her eyes, she had asked her, how she could have let this happen to her boy.

Kairi's face was unmoving as she mustered the feral omega on top of her. Izuku was afraid at this moment, what would she do?

But Kairi sighed. "You are right, it shouldn't have happened in the first place ..." Kairi murmured. "I apologize for that, but that's the horror of war ..." Inko broke down crying, she weakly punched Kairi on the chest, and the prime just let her, after all the torture, these hits didn't hurt anymore.

The relationship between them got only slowly better after Izuku had recovered more. He didn't remember the horrors and so she couldn't hold it against Kairi any longer, she didn't want to trigger anything for her son. They seemed to bond over the years quite a lot.

Izuku noticed, that Kairi, even though she was older than Inko, sometimes went to her, after an especially draining job to look for ... comfort? Izuku wasn't too sure about that. He had never asked his mother.

Inko was now in the cottage, Izuku and Lucia were in the bed, Kieran and Leony were in between them. Inko was sitting next to the bed, she released her calming omega pheromones, which helped them all to sleep better.

The omega was deeply in thoughts when she watched her son, she was angry again, that the wall had been broken and he was suffering again, She was also really frustrated, that they wouldn't tell her what really went down. But she knew that it was hard for Izuku ...

"I really hope they get this bastard" Inko murmured ...

August came around and Mae went into labor, Eijiro brought her immediately to the hospital, this time she had a C-Section, she didn't want to risk the pups' lives. It took some time, but eventually, all three of them were out of her and Mae was being closed again.

They were in the hospital room and they took care of their three little angels. They had named them Akemi, Beniko and Chizuru.

Mae's and Eijiro's parents came to visit them, they also brought Ryuu, the boy was a little confused at first, why there were three new pups, but he let out a happy squeal soon after.

Life was ultimately more stressful now, Eijiro had to stop working too much, so he could take care of the babies, but at the same time, he couldn't work too little otherwise he didn't get enough money. His sleep was reduced to next to nothing.

Sometimes Katsuki came over to help him, when he had a day off, he was massively thankful for that.

Juggling three babies was extremely exhausting, especially when they all wanted to be fed at the same time.

"You look exhausted, man" Katsuki murmured.

"I am ... I don't know when I slept the last time ..." Eijiro was shivering, while he stared at nothing in front of him, he didn't even want to blink because he was afraid that, if he did, his eyes wouldn't open anymore.

"Yikes, you have to take a nap, don't worry I will inform you if something comes up."

"Okay ..." with stiff motions Eijiro walked over to the couch in the office and as soon as his body hit the upholstery his eyes closed and he was passed out completely.

Later in August, Hotaru celebrated her ninth birthday, she invited Saori, Ryuu, Kira, Takara, and Takuya, Enko and Yuki were of course there too, they had a little party and it was much fun for them.

Keigo was surprised that Toya had allowed that, but the other omega just shrugged. They had been over before that, so why exclude them? Besides, it was Hotaru's wish to invite them.

The avian omega was just happy that he and his pups got slowly more acceptance from the other family members.

Isao updated them regularly, but so far he had gotten nothing out of them.

In October, Toya, Sougo, Michiko, and Isao visited Tartarus again, he wanted to see if Shigaraki had gotten his bond scrubbing, they also wanted to check if he was okay, somewhat.

It didn't look good if Toya was honest, Shigaraki had gotten a bond scrubbing, but he looked also more scared than at the beginning of the year. He was shivering and he jumpy, every sound seemed too much and he looked like he was almost dying from a heart attack because he was so afraid.

This time, the doctor wasn't even around, still, Shigaraki kept looking over his shoulder as if he was there.

Isao asked him some questions, but Shigaraki couldn't even answer them, it seemed as if his brain short-circuited every time he got asked a question that was a little more complex. It was honestly horrifying to look at.

Toya put a hand against the glass and Shigaraki focused entirely on the hand he tried to reach out for it and even rubbed his face against the window, trying to get in contact with it.

It pained the omega to see his former mate like this, it was just horrible.

November came around and Eijiro got even more stressed, next month was Christmas, and Mae wanted to have a Christmas party, how the hell should he afford that? He was still paying up the house, even though Mae had invested money too, he paid the largest part of it.

She also asked him repeatedly about the wedding, but he told her that this year, they didn't have the money. She pouted a little but accepted it, but she wanted to get married next year.

They discussed the whole wedding and when Eijiro calculated how much it would cost, he paled again, the amount of stuff she wanted would roughly accumulate to another four million yen. It would have been a piece of cake to afford that if they hadn't bought this giant house ... But now, even that seemed too much.

Katsuki on the other hand was very excited about Christmas, Mitsuki and Masaru went a little bit too far with the presents.

He kissed Hiroto and then he helped Kira to open her presents, the little pup squealed in happiness.

Izuku and Lucia tried to keep it together, they were massively stressed still, but for the children, they wanted to act normal. Izuku's workplace threw a giant Christmas party, and he didn't want to ruin it with panic attacks. But it was hard. Even though they made appointments with a therapist, they still couldn't get past the trauma. And now that he remembered the stuff with the organs, he started to feel weird again, it really seemed to be a head-thing, since he had lived his life normally for the past years.

He begged to whatever deity was up there, that he could forget all of that once again, he didn't want to live in fear.

The alpha hoped, that the next year would bring more good news.